A German savant in an article just translated by the Literary Dig-st has and Emma Murphy, of Oregon, Feb. 22, collected a lot of statistics to show that by Ray, Father Napper. married people live longer than single ones, and he strikes viciously at the last and Silva A. Worley, of Elm Grove, by hope of dry bachelors and ancient Wm. M. Price, April 21. maidens. He claims for example, that German insurance companies have found that among the celebrated Catholic clergy the expected mortality rate of New Point, Aug. 14, by Elder A. has been 112 per cent as against but 85 Hardman per cent among the married Protestant ministers. That there is a great -r mortality among husbands and wives who Havnes have lost their consorts than among those who are still married. The greater and Nellie B.
